(a) Books not produced were usually presented for inspection in the month of January, and cases of absence, viz., illness, or distance allowed by a trustee or manager, and interest restored to account.

(b) Not established till 1860.

(c) All books produced in 1861 and 1862 by depositors were paid off in full, and steps have been taken to discover the residences of those who did not appear that all may be paid off.

(d) From the number of cases wherein the managers have allowed the interest, some in full and some in part, it would be almost impossible to give an accurate return of those accounts on which interest had actually ceased. The auditor also attends on each business day for some few weeks subsequently to examine and verify the depositors' books.
